“Our enrolled COVID-19 vaccine providers are making impressive progress providing community healthcare workers vaccine through Phase 1. They are just beginning to reach out to groups in Phase 2. Our ability to offer communities vaccine relies on the volume of vaccine our state receives and what our health district is allotted. We would like to remind people that the pace in one health district, or even within our five counties, may move differently and we ask for the community’s patience in this significant effort,” said Carol Moehrle, PH-INCD Director.

How will you know when it’s your turn to get your vaccine and where to go?

Public health is working through the vaccine effort in segments based on the Phases and Subgroups established by Idaho’s COVID-19 Vaccine Committee (CVAC). As we work through Phases, PH-INCD will share that information with the public. PH-INCD and its enrolled vaccine providers will work to notify the public through a number of public communication channels including websites, social media, and community and media partners.
